The mission of The Family Institute at Northwestern University is to strengthen and heal families from all walks of life through clinical service, education and research.
Greetings. The Family Institute at Northwestern University faced two challenging years after the economic setback of 2008. During those two years, we managed to do more than hang on and get by. We actually grew. But in Fiscal Year 2010, we thrived, exceeding our expectations in all areas: clinical service, education and research.

In FY10, our clinical services increased 11 percent. To meet this increased demand for therapy, we expanded our downtown location from one to two full floors, allowing us to help more individuals, couples and families.

Both of our education programs — Master of Science in Marriage and Family Therapy and Master of Arts in Counseling Psychology — successfully recruited full classes. Through our scholarship program, in collaboration with The Graduate School at Northwestern University and the generosity of a family foundation, we offered financial aid to students.

Research remains central to the Institute. Its integration into our clinical service and education programs makes us innovative leaders, focused on the future of therapy. We have seen enormous strides in our Psychotherapy Change Project. The STIC® (Systemic Therapy Inventory of Change), a client self-report questionnaire, helps us to learn how people change over the course of therapy. Using the STIC® in collaboration with a consortium of mental hospitals and treatment centers in Norway has shown us just how valuable a treatment tool it is — not only for therapists but for their clients as well. FY 2011 promises additional growth of the Psychotherapy Change Project through the creation of a Chicago-based consortium and increased international demand for the STIC®.

We spent 2010 focusing not only on our programs but on the Institute as a whole. Thanks to a generous grant from The Taproot Foundation, we now have a strong visual identity as the go-to place for high quality mental health care. We learned that the Institute’s brand promise is “Leading the way in family therapy”, and that we are committed, innovative and leaders.

In FY11, we see an even greater emphasis on change and transformation in the people we help, the students we train and ultimately in ourselves as we continue to lead the way forward.

We look ahead with excitement, optimism and confidence. Thank you for your interest and support.

WHAT WE OFFER

The Family Institute at Northwestern University is deeply committed to our mission of strengthening and healing families from all walks of life. We are leading the way in family therapy while setting the standard for innovative research, teaching and care in the field.

DIRECT MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES
• Nationally-renowned Staff Practice
• Committed to ensuring everyone has access to our knowledge and care, regardless of ability to pay through our sliding-fee scale

GRADUATE EDUCATION WITH NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
• Committed to educating and training the next generation of mental health practitioners through our two education programs:
  - Master of Arts in Counseling Psychology
  - Master of Science in Marriage and Family Therapy

CLINICAL RESEARCH
• Conduct cutting-edge, innovative research projects to help discover how people change in therapy and what therapists do to facilitate that change

POSTGRADUATE FELLOWSHIPS
• Conducted through clinical and research fellowships for mental health professionals who have completed Master’s or Doctoral degrees

DOCTORAL-LEAD STUDENTS & PSYCHIATRY RESIDENTS CLINICAL TRAINING
• Training site for clinical psychology doctoral students studying at Northwestern University’s Department of Psychology and for psychiatry residents enrolled in Northwestern University’s Feinberg School of Medicine

CONTINUING EDUCATION FOR MENTAL HEALTH PROFESSIONALS
• Offer continuing professional education annually through workshops, seminars, conferences and clinical consultation

The Family Institute: A Mental Health Leader and Innovator

Since its founding in 1968, The Family Institute has been a pioneer in developing programs and services that embody its mission: To strengthen and heal families from all walks of life through clinical service, education and research.
WHAT WE BELIEVE

Our core values guide us as we extend our capacity to help greater numbers of people and an enormous diversity of families.

- The family is the singular most significant factor influencing human identity.
- Family-based therapy is a powerful model for change, one that not only helps people cope with major life issues, but that can ultimately transform how we lead our lives, resulting in healthier communities and societies.
- Quality mental health care should be available to all who need it, regardless of their financial resources.
- The definition of “family” takes many forms, and is not limited by the boundaries of biology and marriage.

PRESIDENT’S CIRCLE

The Family Institute’s President’s Circle is a special donor recognition society. This prestigious and important society recognizes a generous group of donors who contribute $1,000 or more during a given fiscal year.

Members of The Family Institute’s President’s Circle — business and civic leaders, alumni, grateful patients and employees — form an elite group of philanthropic leaders. Through their generosity, they provide the resources that enable the Institute to deliver high quality, innovative care to all individuals and families. President Circle members receive periodic updates on Institute initiatives and exclusive invitations to educational and social events.

For information on the President’s Circle, please contact Suzanne Puntillo at 312-609-5300, ext. 484 or spuntillo@family-institute.org.

* We are pleased to recognize those donors who are alumni of our various programs. These individuals have graduated or have a certificate from one of The Family Institute’s professional training/education programs, including those conducted at The Family Institute of Chicago, the Center for Family Studies (Northwestern Memorial Hospital), School of Education & Social Policy’s Counseling Psychology PhD or MA programs (Northwestern University), and the Center for Applied Psychological and Family Studies (Northwestern University).

Every effort is made to provide accurate information. If your name or gift has been listed incorrectly or inadvertently omitted, please contact Michelle Weil, Database and Development Manager, at 312-609-5300, ext. 480 so we may correctly acknowledge your support in the future.

Clinical Service

Leaders … in the field of therapy

The Bette D. Harris Family and Child Clinic continued to experience strong demand from clients for services and from students across the country for training. In FY10, the Clinic and Community Programs provided over 15,000 hours of service.

The Institute expanded the 10th floor of its Michigan Avenue location with 12 new offices, allowing us to help more individuals, couples and families.

Staff Practice

The 44 clinical staff members who participated in the Staff Practice this year produced over 30,000 hours of service.

Affiliates

Our 32 affiliate therapists have been successful in increasing the clinical capacity of the Institute. They produced over 9,000 hours of service in FY10.

Postgraduate Fellowship

Continued strong interest in the Institute’s highly competitive Postgraduate Fellowship Program resulted in 31 outstanding applicants for the three open positions in FY10. Two of the graduating fellows were hired as staff members for FY11. Since 2002, 65% of the Fellows have been hired by the Institute, providing well trained, energetic staff in areas of need at the Institute.

Niche Programs

Assessment

Assessment introduced a collaborative model of assessing clients, consistent with the systemic model of treatment developed and used at the Institute. Time is initially spent helping the client clarify the questions they hope to have answered. The final report repeats these and provides findings to answer the questions in a readable form.

Mindfulness and Behavior Therapies (MBT)

Completing its third year of operation, MBT specializes in the use of Dialectical Behavior Therapy (DBT) with clients who have emotional disregulation issues. The MBT team expanded to 14 therapists in FY10.

Group Therapy Program

The goal of The Family Institute Group Therapy Program is to build and maintain a slate of group therapy options for clients and to provide group therapy training for clinicians. We offered 16 groups in Evanston, Northbrook and Millennium Park for adults, children, teens, men and women.

Research

Innovative … research and projects

In FY10, the Research Department continued its work executing four major research programs: the Psychotherapy Change Project (William Pinsof, Principal Investigator), Enhancing Treatment for Generalized Anxiety Disorder (Richard Zinbarg, Principal Investigator), Family Environment, Child Temperament, and Risk for Depression (Emily Durbin, Principal Investigator), and Interpersonal Context of Depression and Anxiety in Couples (Lynne Knobloch-Fedders, Principal Investigator). All four major projects continued collecting new data, analyzing study results, publishing their work in major research journals, and presenting their work to other scholars at national and international conferences.

The Research Department was also active training the new generation of scholars at the undergraduate, graduate and postgraduate level. In addition to the 10 undergraduates who participated in the summer research internship for advanced undergraduates, the research faculty mentored 68 undergraduate and 13 graduate student research assistants in their work on the four major projects.

The Research Department also contributed to the overall work of the Institute. Twenty-four patients have been served directly in research projects. Twenty-three diagnostic assessments were conducted by the Research Department faculty and students for Clinic patients at no cost. Among staff, supervisors, and students, there are 71 clinicians who are actively using the STIC® in their psychotherapy. The research team produced 58 publications this year including books, journal articles, and book chapters.
Committed … to training the future of therapy

Commencement was held for the Class of 2010 on June 19 at the Alice Millar Chapel. Twenty-six Counseling Psychology students and 22 Marriage and Family Therapy students graduated.

Dan McAdams, PhD, was the keynote speaker. He gave an inspiring commencement address about the importance of personal narratives in giving meaning to our lives, and how therapy can be seen as a series of conversations designed to help people change their personal narrative in such a way to add that meaning.

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN MARRIAGE AND FAMILY THERAPY (MFT)

The MFT program completed its first full year under the leadership of Doug Breunlin, MSSA, LCSW, LMFT. Accomplishments of FY10 include a complete rewrite of the program’s web pages on both The Graduate School and Family Institute web sites, creation of a new brochure and a major revision of supervision practices for first-year students, emphasizing live supervision and work with relational cases.

Over the past year, the program has sharpened and clarified its commitment to producing therapists who practice from a science-practitioner model. The Family Institute Perspective continues to be repackaged. The task force charged with this effort has published two articles and a third major article is being circulated. Finally, the STIC® remains a cornerstone of the science-practitioner model as it provides the tool for the students to do “progress research” on their clinical work.

CLASS OF 2010
The MFT program graduated 22 students in June 2010. Four of these students went on to doctorate programs; one entered the FI fellowship program and 17 sought employment.

ADMISSIONS
Twenty-three students matriculated to comprise the Class of 2012. There are 24 females and two males. Of these, seven are of African American, Hispanic, Hispanic-American and Asian descent. The mean GRE Score was 1181. More than 73% attended out-of-state schools and 27% attended college or university in Illinois. The age range was 21 to 38 years.

CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY PRACTICA
Coordination of training with Northwestern University’s Department of Psychology continued to develop with a goal that trainees receive the highest quality of clinical training while adhering to Family Institute policies and procedures. Nine doctoral students have filled 16 slots in five distinct practica to make for a rich training experience.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY MEDICAL SCHOOL PSYCHIATRY TRAINING PROGRAM
In the fifth year of this collaboration, eight psychiatry residents in two rotations of four work with couples and families in the Millennium Park office to develop some understanding of and intervention skills with family systems. To make the best use of the limited availability of these physicians, a live supervision model is used to quickly guide the development of systems thinking in clinical work.

MASTER OF ARTS IN COUNSELING PSYCHOLOGY (CPSY)

A national search was completed for a new Director of the Counseling Psychology Program. This resulted in the selection of Dr. Fran Giordano, the President of the Illinois Counseling Association and member of the Illinois Counselor’s Licensing Board.

The CPSY program applied for and received two grants this year. Three thousand dollars was awarded from the Northwestern University Alumni Association and used for “Lunch and Learn” events, which entail inviting experts to present each quarter on a topic of clinical importance, accompanied by lunch for students who are between classes. Two thousand dollars was awarded from The Graduate School’s Professional Development Grant to fund the Counseling Psychology Careers Night which serves as a program educational event and networking opportunity for CPSY students as well as a recruitment tool for prospective students.

COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

Over the past 20 years, the Institute has provided services to under-served, under-resourced communities in Evanston and Chicago through our Community and Outreach Services Program. This program placed clinical staff and graduate students in public schools and other community sites where they provided individual, group and family therapy to students and their families, and consultation to school or agency staff. The program received significant financial support from a number of local foundations. Over the last several years, that support has eroded as competition for funding became more intense, and the criteria for funding emphasized total units of service over quality issues. After considerable debate, we made the decision to reduce our community services from a full program to a specialized training opportunity within the education programs.

BRANDING WITH TAPROOT

Public Affairs focused on branding and identity in FY10, taking a closer look at “who we are and what we do,” and what distinguishes the Institute from other organizations. Through a generous grant from the Taproot Foundation, the Institute spent nine months working on shaping a compelling visual identity, including a new logo. The process helped refine the Institute’s brand and identity standards, which also included key messaging and how to present ourselves to the community at large. The Taproot team concluded the Institute’s strength is centered on “shaping the future of family therapy.” We distinguish ourselves as “innovative, committed, leaders.” Through the consultation process, the Taproot team learned that our consumers want to entrust themselves with the very best. As such, the Institute will continue to lead the way in family therapy, striving to be innovative, committed and leaders, all reflected in our new logo. We launched the new logo in July.

ONLINE INITIATIVES

Public Affairs began two new online initiatives in FY10 in collaboration with Clinical Marketing:

Tip of the Month. These brief, research-based reports address couple and family topics which are relevant and current. Tips highlight how to promote strong couples and healthy families.

Kaleidoscope. Kaleidoscope offers LGBT parents information and suggestions to support raising resilient, accepting and self-affirming children.

ALUMNI

The Alumni Association serves all alumni who have graduated from or have a certificate from The Family Institute’s professional training/education programs, including those conducted at The Family Institute of Chicago, the Center for Family Studies (Northwestern Memorial Hospital), School of Education & Social Policy’s Counseling Psychology PhD or MA programs (Northwestern University), and the Center for Applied Psychological and Family Studies (Northwestern University).

The Alumni Association strives to foster lifelong relationships between The Family Institute and its alumni. The Association promotes a spirit of loyalty and fraternity among graduates, students and friends, while encouraging alumni to maintain involvement in activities of the Institute and to support the Institute’s work through financial and volunteer contributions.

The Alumni Association is a resource for current students, alumni and the Institute itself.

SERVICE TO THE ALUMNI

The Alumni Association provides professional development, networking and social events, and advocacy for The Family Institute’s alumni base.

In June, the Alumni Association held a five-year reunion for the Class of 2005. This was a first-time event and a wonderful opportunity for classmates to reconnect and learn about new developments at the Institute since their graduation. The Alumni Association plans to make this an annual event at the Institute, incorporating various graduation years.

In August, the Alumni Association held a first-time event for new graduates called “Connect/Re-Connect: Class of 2010” at the Institute. Alumni from previous years were in attendance to speak about their school-to-career experiences. The new graduates networked with alumni and each other to learn about job opportunities and received advice for their job search and obtaining a license. This will be an annual event to help new graduates with the transition from school to career.
SERVICE TO THE STUDENTS
The Alumni Association connects with The Family Institute’s graduate programs by providing mentoring, advocacy and promoting continued involvement with the Institute and the Alumni Association.

The Alumni Association has continued serving as ambassadors for The Family Institute this year to strengthen the connection between alumni and the Institute. Alumni have supported the Institute by attending and introducing new people to Circle of Knowledge events and Family Institute professional education events. The Alumni Association also is committed to raising funds for scholarship support.

Career Guidance Night for Marriage and Family Therapy students was held in March. Alumni panelists shared their professional experiences and answered students’ questions about their various career paths.

SERVICE TO THE FAMILY INSTITUTE
The Alumni Association supports the mission and activities of the Institute and fosters a culture of financial support among the alumni.

The Alumni Association extended its reach as ambassadors for The Family Institute this year. The Public Affairs committee of the Alumni Advisory Board organized contact lists to help get the word out about various news and events, helping to strengthen the connection between The Family Institute and its alumni.
Thank you to all our friends and supporters who are part of our ever-expanding Circle of Knowledge and who attended Family Institute events this year.
